

7.1.7 Ramps with easy access to class room

Ramps are a fundamental component of a barrier-free campus, providing accessibility and mobility for people with disabilities, temporary impairments, and those with other physical limitations. Their importance extends beyond just compliance with legal standards—they are a critical aspect of creating a more inclusive, independent, and supportive campus environment. By ensuring that ramps are available in all campus buildings, colleges not only improve the physical accessibility of their facilities but also promote a culture of equality, respect, and opportunity for all members of the campus community.
